Teaching Experience

School of Criminology, Sociology and Social Policy, University of Leicester

Sep 2022 - Sep 2026 Graduate Teaching Assistant
School of Criminology, Sociology and Social Policy, University of Leicester

- Designed and delivered interactive workshops, marked assessments, and provided academic support across undergraduate and postgraduate modules in criminology. Held regular office hours and drop-in sessions, responded to student academic queries by email, and signposted students to wellbeing services. Engaged in departmental service through the School's EDI Committee, Rubric Working Group and Academic Skills and AI Working Group. Supported student recruitment through open days, offer holder days and the School's open house event. Supervised a student field trip to a prison facility.

Modules Taught

2022/23 - 2025/26

- CR1001 Theories of Crime and Criminality (Workshop Leader)
  Four consecutive years; total enrolment exceeding 900 students across 21 workshop groups

  - Designed and delivered two-hour workshops exploring key criminological theories, including classical, positivist, social constructivist and critical perspectives on crime and deviance
  - Created film-based workshop activities pairing theoretical frameworks with feature films, designing group tasks that deepen analytical engagement rather than relying on simple knowledge transfer
  - Delivered academic skills workshops, supporting students' development of research literacy and scholarly writing
  - Extensive experience using Blackboard as the primary virtual learning environment (VLE), including uploading learning materials, managing module content and communicating with students

2022/23 - 2025/26

- CR1002 Criminal Justice in Action (Workshop Leader)
  Four consecutive years; total enrolment exceeding 800 students across 19 workshop groups

  - Designed and delivered two-hour workshops covering criminal justice institutions and processes, including policing, CPS, courts, sentencing, the prison system and probation
  - Created interactive group work activities, including creative tasks and case study exercises, to develop students' ability to apply criminal justice concepts (e.g., criminal justice models) to real-world scenarios
  - Delivered academic skills sessions covering referencing conventions, how to read and critically engage with journal articles, how to apply rubrics and the use of academic language in written assessments
  - Extensive experience using Blackboard as the primary virtual learning environment (VLE), including uploading learning materials, managing module content and communicating with students

Oct 2025 - Dec 2025

- ADCR7S1 Master's Level Study Skills (Co-Facilitator)
  38 postgraduate students from Criminology master's programmes

  - Co-designed and co-delivered study skills sessions for postgraduate students with colleagues, covering academic writing and critical analysis at master's level
